

Left: a plan of Anula School showing the path from Springhill Street. The girlfriend said the two girls had previously walked around to Wandie Crescent and Anula shops, also shown on the plan.

Below: the Springhill Street bus stop (behind vehicle) where the two girls were waiting for a bus when they met the boy. The girlfriend waited at the bus stop while the complainant went into the school yard with the accused. After a bus went by, the girlfriend walked down to the corner (above) and saw her friend returning from the school with the boy.

Above left: the path between the school buildings, September 2007.
Above right: the caretaker's caravan, Anula School, September 2008.
Left: the view from the school across the school oval in September 2007. No streets are visible through the dense vegetation. There is another line of trees between the oval and the school buildings (behind camera). The complainant could not have pointed out a street, if as she stated she went into the school grounds to show the boy the way to a street opposite the school.